Ahead of Tax

Belgian Coalition

Agreement

In brief

After eight months of negotiations, Belgium's new government has concluded a Coalition agreement at the end of January. This agreement announces several tax policies and measures that will impact businesses, employees and individual investors/shareholders.

Key takeaways

During this webinar, we covered the most important anticipated changes to the corporate income tax regime (such as the dividend received deduction, group relief and exit tax), the introduction of a new capital gains tax for individuals, the introduction of a carried interest regime, new indirect tax measures, implications for R&D incentives and other tax measures aimed at improving the net cost ratio of employee compensations.

The Coalition agreement also announces various procedural measures that may impact the relationship between taxpayers and tax authorities (such as an amendment of the tax assessment periods, a softening of certain tax compliance rules, the possibility of a new tax arbitration procedure and an amendment of the tax penalty policy).

This webinar will give you an overview of the tax measures that will most impact your business and investors, as well as provide our initial reflections and questions marks to enable you to start preparing for these changes.
