

Representative Legal Matters

John W. Woods, Jr.

- Lead legal advisor to Fortune 20 company on the governance, compliance and legal issues associated with board of directors mandated cyber resilience project.
- Served as legal advisor and oversaw investigation into SCADA system malware compromise at critical infrastructure provider. Advised on coordination with Department of Homeland Security and Federal Bureau of Investigation.
- Led the strategic global legal response and investigation for Fortune 500 consumer goods organization victimized by NotPetya malware incident. Announced financial impact on client exceeded USD 125 million.
- Served as lead investigative counsel and legal advisor to three separate financial institutions over a six-year period involving data manipulation attacks on pre-paid credit cards. Total monetary losses associated with incidents exceeded USD 60 million. Clients were located in the United Kingdom, United States and India/Oman and involved coordination with law enforcement in 27 different jurisdictions.
- Served as lead counsel in litigation filed against the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) regarding investigation into client data breach. Matter resolved after litigation commenced through the FTC issuing a no action letter.
- Serve as board counsel to an insurance holding company regulated by the Federal Reserve Board with regard to cybersecurity related legal matters.
- Conducted FFIEC mandated independent investigation for major financial services company on nature, scope and risk resulting from a network intrusion that resulted in direct financial losses in excess of USD 13 million.
- Served as lead counsel for Fortune 250 entity on global cybersecurity assessment. Directed and provided oversight to over 40 network security engineers and assessors from major global consultancy.
- Acted as special counsel to major retailer and led investigation into network intrusion in which over 45 million credit cards were compromised.
- Retained by board of directors of transportation critical infrastructure provider to independently investigate management's oversight of cybersecurity related risks.
- Advised major US telecommunications provider on compliance with FCC privacy related consent decree.

- Served as counsel to leading global consultancy on development of information governance model.
- Conducted investigation for Fortune 100 energy company into possible involvement of employees in state sponsored attempts to steal intellectual property of another entity. Prosecutions associated with the investigation resulted in first criminal jury verdict under the Economic Espionage Act.